Maggie's Philosophy...

I believe you walk in the ring with your dog and with the relationship you share with one another and with the work. I want my dog to be a confident, happy partner with a "put me in coach" attitude. I focus on engagement and attitude first and then build precision and ring readiness. Throughout my training, I strive to create a thinking dog capable of making independent and appropriate choices. I balance the "have to" with the "want to" by wrapping my training all up in play and games so my dogs don't really know the difference between the two.

I work with the dog I have in front of me rather than being committed to a particular method. I believe we must give to our dogs what we expect back from them...respect, focus, energy, patience and FUN!

Dogs are amazing creatures with so much to teach us when we open our hearts and listen.
